Inventory of Homeless Units and Beds

Emergency Shelter,
Transitional Housing and Safe Havens for
Persons who are Homeless

Seattle / King County

Spring 2011

Important – Please Read

This inventory is a point in time count of emergency shelter, transitional housing and safe haven units/beds specifically dedicated for homeless people. In this inventory:

- Program capacity is represented by both units and beds. The unit number represents the number of households that a given program can serve at one time, while the bed number represents the maximum number of individual persons that could live in those units. For programs serving family households (young parents, women with children, and families with children) these two figures differ, while for programs serving single person households (youth / young adults, single women, single men, and single adults) the number of units and the number of beds are the same
- Emergency shelter in this report reflects fixed (facility-based) capacity. It does not include hotel/ motel vouchers, or winter-response shelter.
- Youth (under age 18) and Young Adults (age 18-24) are served by many of the same agencies, and are often discussed as a single population group. There are, however, differences between the two groups and in the requirements for working with them (i.e., minors as opposed to adults). In this report, while they are combined in the summary tables and charts, the two groups are shown separately in the more detailed tables.
- Emergency Shelter, Transitional Housing and Safe Havens are key to meeting the immediate safety and interim housing and service needs of persons who are homeless, but the ultimate goal is "permanent housing", with no time-limits on tenancy. There are permanent housing projects that are specifically designated for formerly homeless people. Some are specifically designed for persons with certain disabilities who need ongoing case management and services to maintain their housing, some are in properties with on-site resources and services, and others are "merely" units designated for households coming out of homelessness. Identifying these units/beds is beyond the scope of this report.

This Inventory of Homeless Units and Beds was compiled by staff from the King County Community Services Division. Data reflected here were collected in conjunction with our county's consolidated application for federal McKinney Homeless Assistance Program funds.

PART B: Emergency Shelter Resources

1. Summary

Emergency Shelter is defined as temporary shelter from the elements and unsafe streets for homeless individuals and families. Shelter programs may be either fixed capacity (facility-based) or flexible capacity (i.e., hotel/motel vouchers, etc.). Shelter accommodations range from mats on the floor in a common space, to beds in individual units.

There is an extensive network of emergency shelter facilities in Seattle/King County with a total year round capacity of approximately 1,890 units / 2,465 beds. Additional shelter, with varying availability, is provided through numerous hotel/motel voucher programs. During the winter months, October through March, shelter capacity is further expanded. The total number of additional beds available during this timeframe is reflected as 'winter response' in this inventory.

The most up-to-date information about emergency shelter facilities at any given time can be found through the Crisis Clinic 211 / Community Information Line

PART C: Transitional Housing Resources

1. Summary

Transitional Housing is defined as temporary housing (90 days to 24 months) with supportive services designed to help people make the transition from homelessness to permanent housing. There are various types of transitional housing, ranging from traditional facility-based programs, to scattered-site units that may include a voucher, or rent subsidy for a limited time. Rent amounts are usually based on a percentage of household income.

Typically, transitional programs provide case management to address the individual needs of clients and determine the type and intensity of services to promote residential stability and greater self determination. Services may include health, mental health, education, training or skill-building classes, job search assistance, or budgeting.

A total of 1,911 transitional housing units / 4,022 beds are routinely available in fixed location transitional housing programs in Seattle/King County to assist homeless people as they regain stability in their lives. Included in this inventory are traditional models of transitional housing where residents benefit from a peer group setting as well as Transition-in-Place models where.

Additional beds/units are available through programs that are not fixed in number or location (i.e., rental assistance and case management programs). Because of their fluidity, these latter programs, which comprise approximately 80 additional 'units', are not reflected in this document.

See pages 32 - 34 for pie charts.

PART D: Safe Havens

A Safe Haven is a form of low-barrier supportive housing that serves hard-to-reach persons with severe mental illness who are homeless on the street and have been unable or unwilling to participate in housing or supportive services. Safe Havens serve as a portal of entry providing basic needs (such as food, showers, clothing), as well as a safe and decent residential alternative for participants who need time to adjust to life off the streets and to develop a willingness and trust to accept services. Although staff work with residents to eventually pursue more independent living, there is no time-limit for how long an individual may reside in a Safe Haven.

Until recently, Safe Havens were classified as either transitional or permanent housing. As of 2011 the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has given them their own category - the Safe Haven.
